Depending on how common the name you search and whether you use the 'search partial surname' option, you will likely get a list of results. You can then browse the list to see if any of them are your ancestor!

Here's mine!

CONTRIBUTE

Simply click on the name to take you to the memorial page. The little gravestone icon let's you know that there will be a photo of your ancestor's grave marker.

And voila! You've successfully found your ancestor's memorial page! Let's take a look at what genealogical information the page may contain...

- ⇒ Birth/Death dates and locations– This info may not always match the info you have! As with all record sets, mistakes can be made. Even when it's set in stone!
- Biographical Info—Created or input by the \Rightarrow memorial's creator, it could be simple and succinct or elaborate and detailed (and hopefully accurate)!
- ⇒ Family Links—links to Find A Grave memorial pages of people who are related to your ancestor, such as spouses, siblings and children
- \Rightarrow Burial info—This will likely be the name and location of the cemetery where your ancestor is buried. Or there may be other information, as in cases where there was no burial (lost at sea, ashes spread, etc.). This section may also list the GPS coordinates, plot number or other location information for the grave marker.
- Photos!!- Photos of the grave marker and \Rightarrow cemetery or perhaps if you're lucky, photos of your ancestor themselves!
