Hello Ms. Medina,

I would like to submit the attached Fair MAP criteria comparison for discussion in the Independent Redistricting Commission meeting on Thursday. I haven't seen a table comparison from NDC yet for these criteria, and I would just like to be sure that we discuss all the criteria for the Focus Maps.

Thanks,
Terry Sardina

Subject: Re: Variations of map 96973

Regarding map 96973c, it appears that all 333 people in census block 124216 were moved to D4 from D2. At our January 27 meeting, Commissioner Ashton and I suggested that only the western portion of that census block be moved to D4 (the portion of the block that is NOT accessed from Xana Way). I assume that is possible. given that we are doing it in other places, e.g., along the coast and along the northern boundary between D1 and D2.) Splitting the census block would allow us to avoid splitting the gated neighborhood.

The district populations become more balanced for this map if the above split is incorporated. Just counting the houses, I estimate only ~39% of that population lives on the west side of the census block and should be moved. Hopefully you can determine better than I how many people would be involved.

Q: If you have time before Thursday's meeting, I'd appreciate it if you would prepare to tell us how many people would move if that split was made as originally requested. I'd also be curious how that would affect the population distribution among the districts.

Thank you,
Gayle Cadwallader

In comparing the statistics for map 96973 vs those of 96973b, I see differences of 1080 people in both D3 and D4. The populations of D1 and D2 remained the same. When I use the viewer to look at those two maps overlaid one on the other, I see only one change: Population Unit 100 has been moved from D3 to D4. The viewer indicates that Population Unit 100 has 1188 people. That implies 108 people went somewhere else. But I can't find any other change in the district boundaries. What am I missing?

Q1: Please be prepared to explain at Thursday's meeting why the delta differs from the population of unit 100, as shown in the viewer.

In comparing the statistics for map 96973 vs those of 96973c, I see differences in three districts: D3 is lower by 1230 while D2 is up by 895 and D4 is up by 333.

-- The D4 increase of 333 is presumably the result of moving all of census block 124216 into D4 from D2 (315 ppl per the viewer).

-- The D3 decrease of 1230 appears to be the result of moving those parts of Population Units 64 and 71 that were in D3, just east of El Camino Real and north of Alga, into D2. (However, per the viewer, the affected census blocks contain 1423 ppl.)

-- The D2 increase of 895 should be the net of the people moved in from D3 less those moved out to D4. Using the statistics, that would be $1230 - 333 = 897$. (That math basically checks.) Using the viewer numbers, that net would be $1423 - 315 = 1107$.

Q2: Please explain why the Population Unit numbers can be used to calculate the changes in the 96973c statistics, whereas some other numbers must be used to calculate the changes in 96973b statistics.

Q2a: What is the source of the latter numbers?

I note that the Population Unit numbers are not the sum of their census block numbers - they're often lower than the sum.

Q3: Does the viewer not have all the adjusted numbers? Again, please help me understand.

At the January 27 meeting, it was requested (by Commissioner Saldana?) that we be provided the numbers of people, and percentages, who will be moved from the existing districts to produce the new districts.

Q4: I hope to see that data at Public Hearing #4. I estimate that number to be around 25% for the versions of 96973.

Thanks,
Gayle Cadwallader, Commissioner

I think all districts need to have a portion of the Coast within their district and it should be shared as equally as possible.

D103378, PPd69103 and DNC101 seem to offer that the best.

I've been a Carlsbad resident for 38 yrs and would hate to see any one district get jurisdiction over our beautiful Coast.

Subject: Important data point for 2/17/22 public hearing

On February 1st I sent the following request to the Commission.

"I would like to request for both the four Coastal district map and for the two Coastal district map that in the staff report and Agenda Packet it is clearly delineated what the total number of people across the entire city who will have their assigned district changed. This is an important data point in considering which map should be adopted."

I have reviewed the Agenda packet for the 2/17 meeting and do not see that data point included. As you know, there are several criteria to be considered in adopting a final impact that are directly impacted by that data. The public should have that information available BEFORE the Public Comment period on the Agenda item.

- Minimize voters shifted to different election years
- Respect voters' choices / continuity in office
- Preserving the core of existing districts

I respectfully request that during the Staff / Consultant presentations of the Agenda item, this important information is reviewed for each of the final maps.

Thank you
Arnie Cohen

Good evening,

As a Carlsbad Resident, this upcoming redistricting meeting will greatly affect how my community is represented. I believe the final arrangements made by map NDC101c ensures the best representation of all communities in Carlsbad.

The expanding area of District 1 is necessary and relevant, as many families who live near Carlsbad High School associate themselves with the Village, rather than communities in District 2.

NDC101c also binds communities instead of separating them. By moving slightly Southward (inheriting the Bressi Ranch Area, previously represented by District 3) District 2 preserves existing political communities that would be more aligned with the people of the aforementioned district. District 3 does this as well by bringing the Alicante Rd neighborhood together instead of separating them as the district lines do now. District 4 also does the same by combining my community on Estrella De Mar Ct alongside the rest of Estrella De Mar Rd.

For these reasons, I believe that map NDC101c is the most fair and equal representation of the people of Carlsbad.

Thank you,

Greetings Commissioners,
I watched the entire 4+ hours of your last meeting and appreciate the time that all of you have put into this process.

I totally agree with a four coastal district map.

I would like to ask you all to select Map NDC101C with ONE modification which should be easy. Currently the map's border between proposed District 1 and District 2 lies in the middle of the Agua Hedionda Lagoon. I would like to suggest that you bring that southern border down to Cannon Road so that the NRG/SDGE property is included in District 1. This way an industrial/utility property is included there and District 2 will have the airport as a separate district AND the population won't change by bringing the border to Cannon Road.

Would you all consider this?

Thanks,
Kris
